FARMERS' CONGRESS DOWN TO BUSINESS

Large Exhibit of Farm Machinery and Farm Home Conveniences.

Demonstrations of labor-saving machinery are proving a popular feature of the seventeenth annual session of the Texas Farmers' Congress. Practically every big implement house in Texas is represented in the circus of machinery on exhibit at the College. Tractors, ditching machines, silage cutters, binders, mowers, cultivators, road-working apparatus, all are shown in the two big tents erected at the College campus and are attracting widespread attention among the farmers.

In addition to these machines many conveniences for the farm home are being shown. One of the things that is being urged most at the Congress is the necessity for improving conditions for the farm woman. And when E. C. Gee of the department of rural engineering, J. W. Ridgway of the dairy husbandry department and C. M. Evans of the extension department at the College set out to prepare for an exhibit of machinery at the College, the farm home was not forgotten. The farm woman was remembered and a big share of the machinery on exhibit is intended to lighten her toll.

The general sessions are proving especially popular this year as a result of the allowing of more time for general discussions. Each subject is discussed by an expert and then follows round-table talks or discussions which are participated in freely. At the opening sessions today every question that was brought up was given a thorough discussion from the floor, men and women entering freely into the spirit of the occasion.

The attendance at the Congress is not so large as in past years, but those who are here are here for business and every meeting, both of the affiliated

The trip will be made from the Commercial Club rooms in Bryan, the start attempted at 8:30. With the party will be a trouble car to aid in case anyone has trouble with their machine.

After the trip over the roads has been made a luncheon will be served and then the return to Bryan.

Phone Secretary McKnight at the Bryan Commercial Club that you will assist in this undertaking and do it now.

organizations and the general body, is well attended.

The Congress is seriously considering the advisability of electing representatives to go to the North Central States, there to study the liberal policy of support for State agricultural colleges and other agencies which is followed by the governments of those States. On their return to Texas recommendations will be made to the Texas Legislature as to the "wisdom" of Texas' manner of supporting her institutions. This was one of the features suggested by President Singleton in his annual address yesterday and affiliated organizations in their meetings in the afternoon looked kindly upon his proposal.

A COMMENT BY GOV. COLQUITT

A Rebuke to the "Hotel Politicians" Boosts His Administration.

Austin, Texas, July 28.—Governor Colquitt yesterday gave out the following statement relative to the election of Mr. Ferguson:

"Ferguson's nomination for governor is a great victory for the masses. It shows the people are capable of making their own selection of a good and competent man from the ranks to be governor and that they are not dependent upon the political bosses either upon the anti or pro side of Texas to select a competent man for them. It is a great rebuke to the 'hotel politicians,' to the political preachers, and political bosses generally. It also demonstrated what I have contended all the time, that a majority of the democrats of Texas are opposed to statewide prohibition and favor local option and regulation.

"This administration has given the State the very best of its laws regulating the liquor traffic and the best of its statutes for the enforcement of local option, where the people vote it upon themselves, and the vote in the primary shows that the people are for the policy of legislative rest upon this subject advocated by the nominee for governor.

"It is a wonderful victory for the people all along the line and a wonderful triumph for Mr. Ferguson, whom all the political bosses, both pro and anti, ridiculed as an 'unknown' man.

"The election results put Texas at rest for awhile and given an impetus to good feeling and progress, such as she cannot enjoy as long as designing men make a 'holy war' on a St. Paul moral issue. The people, having won this fight with Mr. Ferguson, they and Mr. Ferguson are entitled to a convention at El Paso and a platform in harmony with the policies advocated by the successful candidate and the people who stood with him and for him in the contest.

"Then we should all support and uphold his efforts to carry out the policies advocated by him, for it was these, as well as the man, that the people have endorsed by their ballots."
